

Home → Lifestyle

This Week in Luxury: Odin Hills in Niseko unveils new designs, Rolls-Royce's new scent, Piaget's Polo Flying Tourbillon Moonphase and more

By Robb Report

10 February, 2025

In our weekly series, we bring you the latest in luxury news around the world. This week's highlights: Louis Vuitton's high-jewellery collection, Il San Pietro di Positano gets fashionable, Sisley Paris cares for sensitive skin

The living room in the K-Series villa. Photo by Odin Hills

Odin Hills in Niseko unveils two new designs

Nestled amidst the views of Mount Yotei and serene Hokkaido landscape, Odin Hills has been a private residential village designed for a discerning mountain community. Adding to its growing residential collection are two new villa designs—the five-bedroom J-Series and four-bedroom K-Series—built upon the Odin Hills ethos of timeless, alpine sophistication. Available as all-inclusive land and house packages, both homes will provide all the comfort, privacy and coveted lifestyle features anyone will need in one of Japan's most popular alpine retreats.

Odin Hills